The successful candidate will teach (40%), conduct research (40%), and engage in service (20%). Applicants should have demonstrated capacity to deliver quality and impactful teaching, mentoring, and advising of undergraduate and graduate students, and demonstrated ability to develop an extramurally-funded and productive research program.

Review of applications will begin on April 1, 2023, with an anticipated start date of August 21, 2023. Applicants should submit a letter of interest (including experience with diversity and inclusion efforts, teaching philosophy and research summary), curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references to [http://www.uvmjobs.com/\(Position Number: 005878\)](http://www.uvmjobs.com/(Position Number: 005878)). Inquiries may be made to Dr. Jennifer Pontius, Co-Chair of the Search Committee at japontiu@uvm.edu

The University of Vermont is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. The Rubenstein School is dedicated to promoting diversity, multiculturalism, and inclusion. We apply an equity lens to our teaching, research, and service and believe in creating a climate of inclusivity and empowerment where all faculty, staff and students flourish. We encourage applications from all individuals who will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the institution.
