The Physics Department at the University of California, Berkeley is actively recruiting for three tenure-track Assistant Professor positions. These searches are in the following areas:

1. Soft Condensed Matter: This position is open to all sub-fields of soft condensed matter, broadly defined, including but not limited to non-linear physics, nonequilibrium statistical physics, physics of learning and information, non-biological soft condensed matter physics, and related areas of biological soft condensed matter physics. Applications from both experimentalists and theorists are welcome.
2. Atomic Physics Theory: We welcome applicants from the full range of topics, including quantum simulation, many-body quantum mechanics, emergent phenomena and entangled systems, connections to quantum information science, quantum optics, precision measurement and tests of fundamental physics, ultracold molecules and chemistry, ultrafast optics, and others.
3. Open Search in Theoretical Physics: This is a broad search in theoretical physics with particular emphases in theoretical particle physics, plasma theory and computation, and theoretical condensed matter physics.

Applicants must submit a separate application to each position of interest.

Berkeley Physics and its partners are committed to establishing cultures that nurture scientific identity and remove barriers to entry, in order to strengthen pathways into careers. To that end, we strive to work and learn together in a positive and inclusive environment. Please visit UC Berkeley Physics' Equity & Inclusion website for more information.

Berkeley Physics has a long history of excellence in teaching, research, and service, as well as a culture that values and promotes interdisciplinarity. It has a compelling record of national and global engagement, and benefits from strong relationships with Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory and other research labs and industry.

Berkeley Physics is committed to addressing personal and family needs of faculty. For more information, refer to OFEW New Faculty site.

The University of California is committed to creating and maintaining a community dedicated to the advancement, application, and transmission of knowledge and creative endeavors through academic excellence, where all individuals who participate in University programs and activities can work and learn together in a safe and secure environment, free of violence, harassment, discrimination, exploitation, or intimidation. Consistent with this commitment, UC Berkeley requires all applicants for Senate faculty positions to complete, sign, and upload an Authorization of Information Release form into AP Recruit as part of their application. If an applicant does not include the signed authorization, the application will be considered incomplete, and as with any incomplete application, will not receive further consideration. Although all applicants for faculty recruitments must complete the entire application, applicants will only be subject to reference checks if and when they are selected as the candidate to whom the hiring unit would like to extend a formal offer. More information is available on this website.

Qualifications: PhD (or equivalent international degree), or enrolled in PhD or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application.

- Atomic Physics Theory <https://aprecruit.berkeley.edu/JPF05147>
- Open Search in Theoretical Physics: <https://aprecruit.berkeley.edu/JPF05037>

To guarantee full consideration, applications must be received by November 14, 2025. All reference letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the UC Berkeley Confidentiality Policy prior to submitting their letters.
