Job Description

Tulane University, one of the nation's premier research institutions, invites applications for multiple full-time faculty positions in the Tulane School of Science and Engineering. The School provides exceptional opportunities for collaboration across disciplines and supports the development of cutting-edge research and educational initiatives. The School is distinctive as the only academic unit at a major research university to merge the behavioral sciences, physical sciences, life sciences, engineering, and mathematics, which provides an unusually rich environment for innovative programs and interdisciplinary research.

Tulane University is a member of the prestigious Association of American Universities and is classified by the Carnegie Foundation as an R1 (Very High Research Activity) and Community Engaged university. Tulane University offers a collaborative environment for interdisciplinary interactions, a strong public service theme, and a commitment to science as a major thrust of research, scholarship, and education.

Full-time faculty openings in the School of Science and Engineering include:

- Mark D. Wheeler Endowed Chair in Artificial Intelligence, Computer Science
- John and Elsie Martinez Endowed Chair, Biomedical Engineering
- Pendergraft Herbert Buchanan Professorship in Mathematics
- Professor and Department Chair, Department of Psychology
- Professor and Department Chair, Computer Science
