Job Description

The Department of Information Science in the Graduate School of Education, University at Buffalo, the State University of New York (SUNY) invites applications for a Clinical Assistant Professor (non-tenure track).

The Department of Information Science has a long history of research excellence and innovative teaching. We strive to create learning environments that enable our students to move into the information professions with contemporary skills and abilities through our programs: an ALA-accredited MS in Information and Library Science, MS in School Librarianship, an Advanced Studies Certificate, and a Ph.D. in Information Science.

We seek an outstanding scholar with a commitment to excellence in teaching and the ability to effectively deliver course content in our online master's programs. We are committed to creating an equitable, diverse, inclusive and just community of faculty, students, staff, and administrators where all feel welcomed, included, supported, empowered and have equal access to supports, services and opportunities that ensure learning and success. We welcome a new colleague who shares this commitment.

Responsibilities include:

- Teach eight courses per academic year; subject areas are flexible
- Advise Information Science master's students
- Participate in professional activities and serve on department, school, and/or university committees
- Contribute to the scholarly and intellectual community of the department. Research productivity is encouraged but is not a requirement of this position

Appointments are for a ten-month academic year beginning in the Fall 2024. Initial screening of completed applications will begin October 10, 2023 and will continue until the position is filled.

Nominations:

Please send nominations to the Search Committee Chair and include the nominee's name, position, and email address.

The Department of Information Science's programs enjoy strong stakeholder support from the community and robust enrollment. In addition, we have collaborative agreements with the School of Law to offer a JD / MS in Information and Library Science, with the Department of Music to offer an MA (Music) / MS in Information and Library Science, with the Department of English to offer two combined degree programs: BA in English / MS in Information and Library Science and BA in English / MS in School Librarianship, and with the Department of History to offer a BA in History / MS in School Librarianship.
